First and Last Name
Email Address

After the event's conclusion, your data will be deleted according to any possible legal requirements, unless you have consented to its other use.

Event notifications

If you subscribe to the IMRET17 event notifications, the data in the respective input mask will be transmitted to the data processor. The registration for our event notifications takes place in a so-called double opt-in procedure, i.e. after registration, you will receive an email to reconfirm your registration. This procedure is necessary to exclude that someone can register with someone else's email addresses. At the time of registration, IP address, date, and time are stored. This enables us to prove registration and consent. A transfer of data to third parties does not take place. An exception exists if there is a legal obligation to pass on the data. The data is used exclusively for sending the event notifications. The subscription to the event notifications can be cancelled by the data subject at any time. Likewise, consent to the storage of personal data can be revoked at any time. For this purpose, a corresponding link can be found in each event notification. The legal basis for the processing of the data after registration by the user is the existence of the user's consent Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a) DSGVO.

Use of rapidmail

Description and purpose

We use rapidmail to send event notifications. The provider is rapidmail GmbH, Wentzingerstraße 21, 79106 Freiburg im Breisgau, Germany. Among other things, rapidmail is used to organize and analyse the dispatch of event notifications. The data you enter for the purpose of receiving the event notifications is stored on rapidmail's servers in Germany. If you do not want any analysis by rapidmail, you must unsubscribe from the event notifications. For this purpose, we provide a corresponding link in every event notification. For the purpose of analysis, the emails sent with rapidmail contain a so-called tracking pixel, which connects to the servers of rapidmail when the email is opened. In this way, it can be determined whether a notification has been opened. Furthermore, with the help of rapidmail, we can determine whether and which links in the notifications are clicked. All links in the email are so-called tracking links, with which your clicks can be counted.

Legal basis

The legal basis for the data processing is consent according to Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a) GDPR. You can revoke this consent with effect for the future at any time.

Recipients

The recipients of the data are rapidmail GmbH and RCPE GmbH.

Transmission to third countries

There is no transmission of data to third countries.
